- Marlow Hayworth missing on SACK Island

Priority: Vaguely important

I had no idea that ADHD advertising had a running tab at the French Connection! Pierre; thanks for all the drinks last night. All that scotch has really helped me deal with the fact that the entire staff of ADHD is still missing and presumed dead.

Got a weird telephone call from Wardair customer service today, wondering if I'd heard anything about survivors! No, I hadn't I said to the guy, 'Well', says the guy, 'our rescue planes think they've seen life on a small island in the Atlantic and parts of what might be the wreckage of a Wardair plane. They also believe they saw someone wearing a Wardair uniform, and our employee Darla Pritchard is missing as well'. "Well go and see!" I say to the guy. "We can't", says the guy, "there is no where to land on the beach. There are huts built out of unrecognizable materials and we didn't want to endanger the pregnant lady while she was giving birth". "Giving BIRTH?!" I yelled, "Was it our copywriter Kitty Finch?" . "We can't confirm that ma'am, but we can confirm seeing 2 men who looked like father and son catching the baby in a sack." "Father and son? That must be Dougie and Henry Burns!" "We can't confirm that ma'am, however we do need to know if any of the ADHD staff are...that way' as our rescue pilot reports seeing 2 men kissing. It's probably nothing, because later, both the skinny one and the balding one were kissing some dame with ..." "Forrest Bronson and Leo Titan were kissing?" "Yes, each other and a lady with red glasses..." "Was she sensationally gorgeous?" "No" "Wasn't Marlow Hayworth then. Wonder where she is?" "We can't help you there ma'am. But we can tell you that the lady with the red glasses seemed very ill and very loud. Our pilot couldn't tell what she was saying, but she's got some sort of an accent" "Oh! Loud. That's Delores Mosco." "We can't confirm that ma'am but you could help us to find out if these survivors are people from your office, if you know of anyone on your staff has red hair? The pilot reports seeing a red head hitting someone over the head with a stick." "The only red head at ADHD was Vicky Vanderstandten, our office manager. "We can't confirm that ma'am. We can only say that the pilot saw her hit a man with a Private Detective's hat, and there is a man named Benvolio Cain missing from that flight as well." So, I said to the guy; 'Stop calling me ma'am". And he says: "I'm sorry Ms. Nutmeg, but if you have any information...at all, we'd appreciate you contacting us." So I say "Ms.?" Why not call me by my first name, Hilda...?"

See What I mean Pierre? Weird huh? Well, thanks again for last night. I'll probably be there tonight as well.

Coffee room clean up: Brandy Alexander Decanter-Titan. (She's still here isn't she?)
